aFe Cummins Exhaust Manifold

New from advanced Flow engineering is its BladeRunner Exhaust Manifold for the '03-'07 Dodge Ram Cummins. The BladeRunner exhaust manifold is constructed out of 0.25-inch-thick wall, cast 304 stainless steel for maximum durability under high heat conditions. With a merged runner design, it provides smooth exhaust transitions and increased flow. The manifold comes with two EGT probe ports to provide the ability to monitor EGTs on both banks of the exhaust manifold. The one-piece design has reinforced ribs between each exhaust port to increase the strength and eliminate the cracking. In recent testing, exhaust flow was increased by 23-percent over the stock manifold. For more information, call (951) 493-7155 or visit www.aFepower.com.

GM Super Steer Idler Support Assembly

Owners of '93-'98 GM 2500 IFS trucks can now enjoy precise steering with SuperSteer's new SS170 idler support assembly. Designed as a direct replacement for the factory part, the SS170 features a robust cast-aluminum, powdercoated housing and tapered roller bearings instead of sleeve bushings. The tapered roller bearing design is not only better at carrying load, but can also be adjusted to remove side play for precise movement. The SS170 comes with Grade 8 hardware and instructions.
